

INTERNATIONAL JOINT STUDY PROGRAM

The College of Business Administration at the University of New Orleans maintains a joint study Health Care Management program with Putian University in Putian China. The program is accredited by AACSB in the College of Business Administration and has been approved by the People's Republic of China and its Ministry of Education. Putian University has a long established history of over 100 years. Qualified students from Putian University transfer to UNO to complete the remaining courses and receive the University of New Orleans undergraduate degree.

Instructors

Highly qualified instructors are selected from Putian University and the University of New Orleans for teaching and academic activities. All major text books, course syllabi and other teaching materials have originated from the College of Business Administration. The instructors participating in the program are:

Harsha E. Chacko; Bridge M. Bordelon; Don L. Zimmerman; Randy D. Kearns; Walter J. Lane; Mark Rosa; Changchun Jiang; Lisheng Yu; Guojian Lin; Shaowen Zhu; Xiuhua Xie; Zhaohui Zhang; Xiujun Lin, Jingjing Zhang; Lin Gu.

Collaboration

The program was established under the direction of Dr. John A. Williams, Dean of the College of Business Administration. Stanley Su, Program Liaison, coordinates the ongoing communication in setting initiatives for broader engagement of academia and the healthcare industry between the U.S. and China. From the joint efforts of both universities, Putian University has become a member of AACSB.

Contact Information

College of Business Administration

Kirschman Hall

University of New Orleans

2000 Lakeshore Drive

New Orleans, LA 70148

Phone: (504)280-6954

Email: lcarboni@uno.edu