HEALTH and MENTAL HEALTH

Revolutionizing Innovative, Visionary Environmental Health Research (RIVER)
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institutes of Health

Notice seeking proposals for Environmental Health Science projects. The program seeks to identify individuals, regardless of career stage, with a potential for continued innovative and significant research and combine their existing investigator-initiated research into a single award to support the majority of their independent environmental health sciences research program.

Proposals are due November 1, 2024. An estimated $4 million is available to fund four to five awards.

Tissue Chips in Space 2.0: Translational Multi-Organ Tissue Chip Systems for Drug Efficacy, Toxicity Testing, and Personalized Medicine in Human Health, Aging and Associated Diseases (UG3-UH3 Clinical Trial Not Allowed)

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institutes of Health

Notice seeking proposals to develop multi-organ automated microphysiological systems (MPS) for studying the effects of microgravity conditions on human body in low Earth orbit at the International Space Station National Laboratory (ISS-NL). This program will provide insights on human patho(physiology), especially aging-related functional decline and age-related diseases. The multi-organ MPS configuration will allow better modeling of the whole organism. Improved automation with extended longevity of MPS will facilitate longer experiments in space and the collection of more physiologically relevant data.

Proposals are due October 18, 2024. An estimated $5.6 million is available to fund up to six awards.

Advisory Council on Alzheimer's Research, Care, and Services
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Notice seeking participation in a public meeting. During the meeting, the Advisory Council subcommittees will present their recommendations for adoption by the full Advisory Council. Each subcommittee will discuss new developments in their area. The meeting will also include presentations on late-breaking findings from recent research conferences, an update on the CMMI GUIDE Model, and updates from federal agencies.

The meeting will be held August 5, 2024, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Registration is required by July 31, to submit public comments during the meeting. Formal written comments may be submitted by August 7.

Deciphering the Impact of RNA Modifications on Brain Aging and AD-ADRD
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institutes of Health

Notice seeking proposals to catalyze innovative research to elucidate the molecular landscape and functional implications of RNA modifications in brain aging and Alzheimer's disease (AD) and AD-related dementias (ADRD). ADRDs include Lewy body dementia, frontotemporal dementia, vascular cognitive impairment/dementia, and mixed dementias. Available mechanisms include R01 and R21.

Proposals are due November 1, 2024. An estimated $4 million is available to fund up to six R01 awards. An estimated $1.4 million is available to fund up to five R21 awards.

Novel Approaches for Radiation Biodosimetry and Medical Countermeasure Development
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institutes of Health

Notice seeking proposals for exploratory research focused on medical countermeasures, biodosimetry, and animal model development to diagnose, mitigate, and treat injuries that result from radiation exposure sustained during a radiation mass casualty incident.

Proposals are due November 1, 2024. Approximately $2 million is available for awards up to $100,000 per year for projects lasting up to two years.

RNA Modifications Driving Oncogenesis (RNAMoDO; U01 Clinical Trial Not Allowed)
U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, National Institutes of Health

Notice seeking proposals to promote fundamental studies in the emerging area of RNA modifications that underlie the oncogenic process, focusing on the central role of RNA modifications in translational reprogramming of cancer cells. RNA modifications have been recognized to exert a substantial impact on gene expression and function and their de-regulation has been linked to the cancer phenotype.

Proposals are due November 4, 2024. An estimated $4.9 million is available to fund up to five awards.

Offshore Wind National and Regional Research and Development
Energy

Notice seeking proposals from applicants to research wind energy and specific impacts in order to advance offshore wind deployment. Additional goals and priority areas of research include, but are not limited to: aiding the transition to fixed-bottom platform concepts that simplify port and vessel constraint; advancing technologies to monitor bird and bat presence and behavior to understand risk to species from offshore wind deployment; advancing understanding of lightening occurrence, mitigation, and prevention at offshore wind deployment sites; leveraging the strength of the existing industrial base in the Great Lakes Region to engage with the national and international offshore wind market; building a university education and research ecosystem to support the technical needs of the US offshore wind industry; and building the next generation of technical leadership. Cost sharing is required, and partnerships are encouraged.

Concept paper are due September 3, 2024. An estimated $48.6 million is available to fund 12 to 21 awards.
